It is truly salutogenic to awaken, foster, and promote the best forces relentlessly. There is nothing more therapeutic than this kind of artistic synthesis.

It seems to me that in our time of speechlessness, we come together in unity around an artis-tically created theme. It becomes reality wherever it has always possessed a treasure that, one hopes, will be widely disseminated. It becomes reality wherever the special value of this kind of creative activity, 'Waldorf Education playing greatly enhance brain development. Truer Than True: A World of Fairy Tales for the Waldorf Kindergarten
Edited by Holly Koteen Soulé

Truer Than True brings twenty-six wonderful tales from around the world to the home and classroom, and to all who love stories. These favorites of the Waldorf early childhood classroom were collected and adapted to enhance inclusiveness and understanding, and to share beloved stories that nourish families from many cultures. “The fairy tale is unique . . . in its capacity to offer seeds of solace and social healing to the soul-in-becoming, and to be a wise and tender guide for us all, in both childhood and adulthood. It is my firm conviction that, with a deepened understanding of how fairy tales work and a wider cultural palette from which to choose, fairy tales will remain a revered part of Waldorf early childhood education.” —from the Introduction

Eurythmy in Kindergarten
Working group of the Professional Eurythmy Association

Eurythmy in Kindergarten is a beautifully illustrated answer to the question, “Why eurythmy in kindergarten?” This unique, artistic form of movement, with its deep connection to the formative power of speech, is especially important for young children’s speech development, which is increasingly under threat in our times. This lovely booklet is written for kindergarten teachers, eurythmists, students in training programs, and parents.

The Picture Language of Folktales
Friedel Lenz

In The Picture Language of Folktales, Friedel Lenz looks at fairy tales and their original images as part of the development of human consciousness. The characters of these stories are human beings living within two worlds—one which is physically visible and experienced through bodily senses and another that is not visible but nonetheless sensed. Friedel Lenz’s consideration of twenty-five tales, originally collected and retold by the Brothers Grimm from 1812 to 1857, offers the possibility of limbering up our thinking and feeling to allow the pictures of these stories to speak.

Stepping into the Future: Early childhood education as the foundation for a healthy social life
International Association of Steiner/Waldorf Early Childhood Education (IASWECE)

At the turning point of one hundred years since the founding of Waldorf Education, we want to take a deeper look at how we can contribute more and more through education to a better human future. The small child awakens in us a whole range of feelings: wonder when we contemplate how they unfold step by step in such a beautiful manner, tenderness when we see their innocence, hope when we try to imagine their future just as it begins to unfold, reverence for their courage to enter earthly life, and so much more. Living with children gives us the possibility of becoming better human beings and unfolding care and protection in our souls. The little child brings to us joy and goodness and awakens in us a sense of responsibility: responsibility for the future.
—from the Foreword by Lourdes Tormes.

From Birth to School Entrance

The Journey of the “I” into Life
A Final Destination or a Path Toward Freedom? Lectures From the 2012 International Waldorf Early Childhood Conference at the Goetheanum
Edited by Nancy Blanning

What is universal in Waldorf education around the world is that an I or a person or a Self wants to identify itself with an inherited body. Five keynote lectures from the 2012 International Waldorf Early Childhood Conference explore this theme from different points of view.

Life is the Curriculum:
Exploring the Foundations of Care for Young Children through the Insights of Rudolf Steiner, Founder of Waldorf Education
Cynthia Aldinger

The author describes the principles behind LifeWays childcare with numerous examples and shows how they grow out of Rudolf Steiner’s indication to “take home as the model” to meet the needs of young children. A practical book for parents, childcare providers, and early childhood teachers from across the spectrum of approaches today. Published by LifeWays North America.

Young Children’s Drawings as a Mirror of Development
Christhilde Blume
Offers observations that support research relating young children’s drawings and development. Dr. Blume shows us that predictable, archetypal forms and patterns—the circle, the triangle, the spiral—emerge according to typical stages of development in young children. She invites us to explore children’s visual language and consider what their drawings tell us about individuation. The discussion includes over 50 reproductions of children’s drawings, many of them in full color, tracing various stages of development as well as the developmental influence of common childhood illnesses.

From Eurythmy in Kindergarten
WeCAN is pleased to offer these titles by therapeutic storyteller Susan Perrow, published in England by Hawthorn Press.

Susan Perrow is a storyteller, teacher-trainer, parent educator, and consultant. She runs therapeutic story-writing seminars from China to Africa, Europe to America, and across her sun-drenched land of Australia.

An A-Z Collection of Behaviour Tales

Susan Perrow

From Angry Ant to Zestless Zebra, this collection offers story medicine as a creative strategy for parenting, teaching, and counseling. Telling the right story at the right time can help children face challenges and change behavior. Following the alphabet from A to Z, each behavior is identified in the story title: angry, anxious, bullying, demanding . . . and much more. The stories, both humorous and serious, are suitable for children aged 3 to 9 years, and for the child in every adult! The stories can be told or adapted, turned into home-made picture books or puppet shows, or used for creating new tales. Lovingly illustrated.

Healing Stories for Challenging Behaviour

Susan Perrow

Healing Stories for Challenging Behaviour brings together the fruits of Susan Perrow’s work in storymaking. It is richly illustrated with lively anecdotes drawn from parents and teachers who have discovered how the power of story can help resolve a range of common childhood behaviours and situations such as separation anxiety, bullying, sibling rivalry, nightmares and grieving.

Therapeutic Storytelling

Susan Perrow

Working with imaginative journeys and the mystery and magic of metaphor, Susan Perrow has developed the art of therapeutic storytelling for children’s challenging behavior and difficult situations. This treasury of 101 new healing stories address a range of issues—from unruly behavior to grieving, anxiety, lack of confidence, bullying, teasing, nightmares, intolerance, inappropriate talk, toileting, bedwetting, and much more. The stories also have the potential for nurturing positive values. This resource will help you create your own therapeutic stories, find suitable behavior stories for children, explore the use of healing stories for challenging situations in the world, develop your storytelling skills using useful tips and anecdotes, draw on modern and traditional wisdom tales from around the world, and more.

Stories to Light the Night:

A grief and loss collection for children, families and communities

Susan Perrow

This book offers story medicine for children, families and communities at times of grieving, loss and separation. As well as many original stories from Susan Perrow, there are stories from different countries and cultures worldwide by writers from a diversity of professions and backgrounds. Each story includes a description of who the story was written for, the age group and the situation. Using the power of metaphor and imaginative story journeys, combined with the sensitive art of listening, the stories in the collection offer a light in the night.

Beginning Well: Empathy from the Very Beginning
Pia Dögl, Elke Maria Rischke, Ute Strub

If we manage, at least partly, to create the appropriate conditions, then the incredible potential of the child—his willpower, his joy in creativity, his ability to participate fully and his effervescent liveliness—will also remain with him into adulthood. BEGINNING WELL is intended to contribute to your shared journey with the young child. A trove of wisdom on mindful care for the child from birth to age three, based on the teachings of Rudolf Steiner and the theories and practice of Emmi Pikler. Full-color photographs offer clear illustrations of empathetic childcare from daily care routines and suitable play materials to play and movement development, sleep and waking rhythms, holistic learning, and more. Essential guidance for young families and for all adults seeking to consciously perceive and care for the young child’s needs.

The first years of life are fundamental for children’s development throughout their lives. Together, the authors founded a home for neglected children in Berlin, Germany, based on the holistic approach of Rudolf Steiner and Emmi Pikler.

UTE STRUB is a physiotherapist whose work with Emmi Pikler resulted in her international work as a lecturer on early childhood education and in training Pikler educational theory and practice.

ELKE MARIA RISCHKE is a Waldorf educationalist and worked as a Waldorf kindergarten teacher for over three decades.

PIA DÖGL works with individuals and groups on empathetic awareness and is the founder of beginningwell.org, a site to support parents and caregivers on caring for young children with empathy, mindfulness and joy.

Wilma Ellersiek, translated by Michael Kranawetvogl / Published by Editorial Rudolf Steiner

A Spanish translation of selections from several volumes of gesture games by Wilma Ellersiek. This edition was produced in collaboration with Editorial El Liceo, Spain. Language teachers in the early grades, as well as Spanish-speaking parents and early childhood teachers, will welcome this lively collection. Proceeds benefit the work of IASWECE on behalf of children around the world.

El Desarrollo del Niño y la Educación Preescolar Waldorf
Edited and translated by Louise deForest

Louise selected six essential, fundamental articles for Waldorf early childhood educators by Joan Almon, Joop van Dam, Helmut von Kügelgen, Susan Howard, Roberto Trostli, and Freya Jaffke. We hope this little volume will become a valuable resource for our colleagues in Mexico and elsewhere in the Spanish speaking world.

- 40 pages, saddle-stitched. $7

Para Los Niños del Mundo:
Cuentos y recetas de la Asociación Internacional para la Educación Infantil
Published by Editorial Rudolf Steiner

A new Spanish edition of our book For the Children of the World (see page 8), produced in association with Editorial Rudolf Steiner, Madrid. Proceeds benefit the work of IASWECE on behalf of children around the world.

El Desarrollo del Niño Año por Año
Edited by Holly Koteen-Soulè

Published in English as Child Development Year by Year, now available in Spanish. This simple, friendly pamphlet discusses how Waldorf early childhood education meets your child at each year of life from birth through age seven. We hope it’s just what you’ve been looking for! Each article includes references to material providing deeper treatment of related topics and bibliographical lists for further exploration. Individual price includes shipping in the U.S.

- 20 pages, saddle-stitched. $5
